

What's on Stuart's tech help menu?

Ways I can help your business

I support business systems, processes and data with the idea: giving you your time back.

STARTERS

Quicker wins — little niggles, sorted fast

Automate a repetitive job

That weekly job you do by hand, set up to run itself.

Tidy up a messy spreadsheet

A sprawling, error-prone spreadsheet cleaned up and made reliable.

Fix a domain or email problem

A web address or email that's playing up, put right.

Reports that build themselves

The report you rebuild each week, set to update on its own.

Sort out your backups

Proper backups, so one wrong click never ruins your day.

A second opinion on AI

A straight answer on whether an AI tool is worth your time.

MAINS

The Bigger Stuff — projects, managed and supported

Make your system fit your business

Your CRM, accounts or stock system shaped around how you actually work.

A new website or hosting sorted

A fresh website, or hosting and domains that are creaking, put right.

Move systems safely

Shifting from one system to another without losing your data.

Plan and run a tech project

A digital change you know you need, planned and steered start to finish.

DESSERT

Someone in your corner — the ongoing bit

Someone local to call

A familiar face on the end of the phone when tech goes wrong.

Spotting your next time-saver

The odd check-in to find what's worth sorting next.

Ongoing behind-the-scenes support

Quiet help that keeps everything ticking over.

Most jobs start as a quick chat. Not sure? Just tell me what's bugging you and I'll point you the right way.

Not sure what to pick? That's exactly what a free Time Saver Review is for.

A relaxed half-hour to work out where your week is going and what's worth sorting first — and happy to meet locally.
